

Nixon Storms Midwest for Farm Votes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Nixon barnstormed in the Midwest today as both Republicans and Democrats stepped up their quest for farm belt votes.

Meanwhile top leaders of both parties denounced anew the use of smear tactics and hate mongering. Democrats contend both are on an upswing as the campaign goes into its final days.

Nixon, extending his Midwest campaigning to include a visit to Michigan, traveled to South Dakota and Nebraska today after a whirlwind tour of Wisconsin. He goes to Minnesota Sunday and to Michigan Monday.

Renewing his broadsides against "radical" Democrats, Nixon said in Eau Claire, Wis., that the nation is "headed for its greatest boom in history if we continue the sound progressive economic policies of the Eisenhower administration."

But he said if the "radicals" gain control there will be a runaway Congress. "And the American people will pay the bill in runaway spending, runaway taxes and runaway prices," Nixon said.

Both parties concentrated on Wisconsin Friday. Arriving there as Nixon was leaving, Secretary of Agriculture Benson joined the vice president in attacking what Benson called left wing Democrats.

Benson, en route to a speaking engagement at Alma in northwest Wisconsin today, told a Milwaukee news conference Friday night: "If Democrats come into power there will be domination within the party by left wing elements whose social philosophy is even to the left of the discredited New Deal."

Following Nixon into Madison, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) predicted the farm vote will "make the difference in more congressional races than the Republicans like to think about."

Meanwhile Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.), chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, said "the political missile which launched a new Ike has misfired."

Returning to Washington from a campaign swing in West Virginia, Smathers said: "Ike has abdicated his public image while Richard Nixon is back in his true orbit. The President is lost in a strange role."

The national chairman of both parties, meanwhile, deplored campaigning based on racial or religious issues.

Democratic Chairman Paul Butler said he has written Chairman Charles P. Taft of the Fair Campaign Practices Committee to protest antisemitic, anti-labor and similar material he said has been used against some Democratic candidates.

Republican Chairman Meade A. McCormack, without mentioning Butler's complaint, also wired Taft that "the Republican party endorses without qualification or reservation your statement warning the public against election campaigns based on racial or religious hate mongering."

During his Wisconsin tour, Nixon ran into some heckling at Madison. With some irritation, he told some youths who held hostile signs that he had been "heckled by experts in South America."

The White House, meanwhile, announced that President Eisenhower will fly to New York Monday night after a brief appearance at Charleston, W.Va., and an 11-state television broadcast from Pittsburgh on behalf of GOP congressional candidates.

Alabama Says Rights Hearing Just Politics

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Civil Rights Commission plan to hold a hearing in Alabama has brought a state official's charge it is politically inspired.

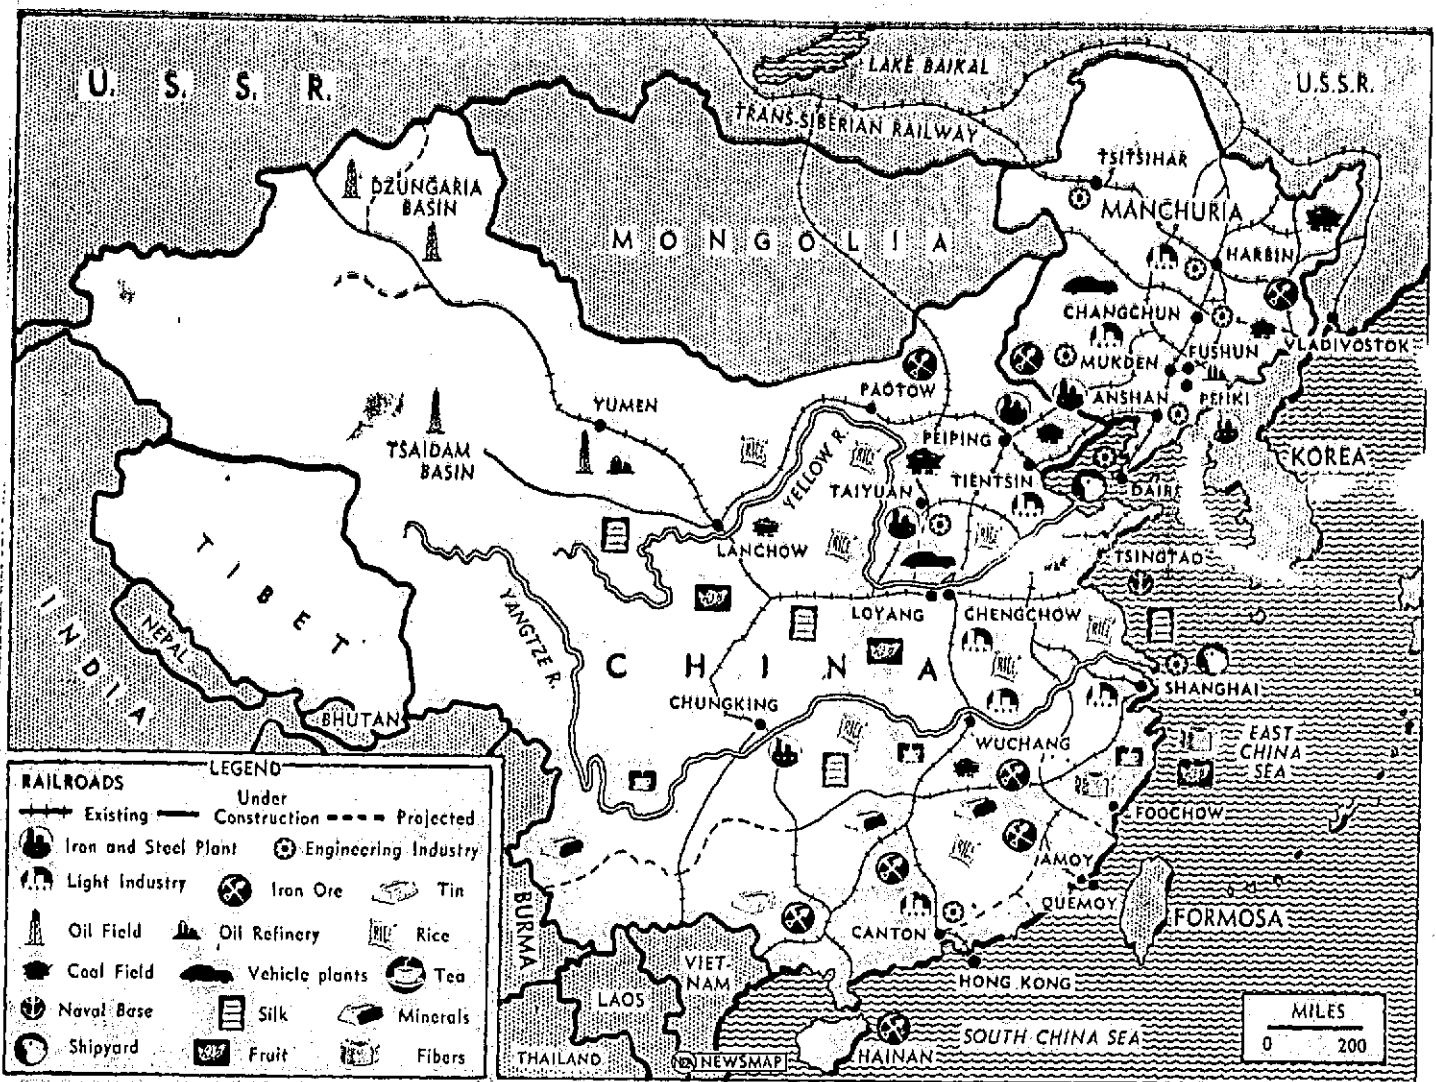

The hearing is set for Dec. 2 in Montgomery, the state capital. It will be the first held by the commission since its creation by Congress last year.

The session may provide a key test of the commission's power to dig out information on complaints by Negroes and others that they have been denied the right to vote.

Acting on advice of Alabama Atty. Gen. John Patterson, officials said they would not attend the session.

When all is said and done, H. J. Brown, Patterson's son-in-law, said, "practices which could have dangerous or destructive effects on the state would have been brought to the attention of the state."

RED GIANT IN THE EAST—The continuing crisis over Formosa has caused Americans to take a close-up look at the vast, sprawling land—3,700,000 square miles—known as China. Newsmap above is an economic picture of the country.

- Her immense population—over 600 million, or one-fourth of the world's, and increasing by 13 million yearly—is concentrated along the coast and up the river valleys. The sparsely settled west consists largely of some of the world's most forbidding mountains and deserts.
- Out of her total population, China's industrial labor force is estimated as low as four million. Her 17,000 miles of railroads contrast with over 200,000 in the United States.
- This year Communist China is winding up a five-year industrialization plan in which she has been greatly helped by Russian technical aid. Steel production in 1958 should exceed five million metric tons, coal 128 million metric tons.
- National income advanced from 27 billion dollars in 1952 to 38.5 in 1956. It is expected to exceed 62 billion by 1962. But this still amounts to only 60 or 70 dollars per person.
- China still has far to go to become an industrial power. Its fascination comes from its potential which will be intensely exploited by the Communist rulers.

Halloween Is Traditionally a Night of Fun for the Young

By MARY ANITA LASTER

The local Boy Scout Drive was conducted this week, and next Friday is Halloween. So, is there a connection, you ask?

There could be, if those observing Halloween only wished it. And no magic genie is necessary to tie the principals of the Boy Scouts to the antics of Halloween as light and firm as a square knot.

The Scouts like other youthful organizations, believe in having fun—good clean fun, though, without malice or destruction. They are pledged to help others and to do "good turns." But in performance, through the long history of Scouting, they have shown it is possible to be "good" without being "goody-good."

And the consequences or the results are so much better. Any one knows its more fun to do something that causes good feeling rather than quick fleeing.

As for Halloween, it originally was what the name implies—a hallowed eve, for it came before a religious observance of All Saints Day on November 1st. The originators of the holiday would recognize the 20th century version of it.

But they would nod with approval at the laughter and merriment of those at costume parties, school gatherings, and sports events on this night of ghosts and goblins. When little witches and elves play Trick or Treat, their bags of "loot" are usually well filled, so all are happy.

Certain safety precautions are needed for children and adults alike. These include: painting false faces on young folks instead of using masks that restrict their vision; using a flashlight instead of a candle in jack-o'-lanterns; reminding children of the danger in dashing between parked cars, playing in the streets, or crossing streets without first looking both ways; putting strips of reflectorized tape or bands on children's outfits to make doubly sure that motorists can see them.

The adults should light their porches so trick-or-treaters won't trip in the dark, watch out for disguised dangers in the streets, tie white strips of cloth on wire or ropes surrounding newly planted trees, and take indoors any objects which might tempt youngsters.

Unfortunately, there is still such a thing as a mean and cruel child who steals from a neighbor's house, or a boy who uses a snake gun on Halloween. That is the reason a warning to clean off your ears, windows before driving is necessary. If the same vandals had taken off the soap they had put on windows the night before they would soon cease that practice.

When all is said and done, Halloween pranks should play it safe and avoid practices which could have dangerous or destructive effects. The last of November would dawn much brighter if boys and girls would be "good scouts" on Halloween.

Trouble May Be Piling Up for Basternak

NEW YORK (AP) — There is much to indicate that troubles aplenty could be piling up for Boris Leonidovich Pasternak, the Russian novelist who was won world renown for his anti-Communist "Dr. Zhivago."

But there also is much to indicate that the 68-year-old novelist isn't worried a bit about the isn't and lovely situation in which he finds himself.

At last reports the author, named Thursday as the first Soviet citizen ever to win the Nobel prize for literature, was putting about in his garden near Moscow unconcerned over his predicament.

Not the least of the problems is his fate at the hands of Soviet authorities, even though his best-selling work has not been published in Russia.

"It is a minor miracle that Pasternak has been left free to dig in his garden," Life magazine said.

Still it is possible that the world-wide hullabaloo over Pasternak may make the Soviets a little wary of dealing out any great punishment.

So far their official reaction apparently has been little more than a snoring disdain for the novel, coupled with an attitude of something like "What else could you expect than praise from capitalist countries?"

Latest American visitors to Pasternak's cottage about 15 miles outside Moscow described him as pleased over the success of his book and seemingly undisturbed as to what may befall him in his own land.

"I find it I let events slide along everything usually works out all right," he was quoted as saying. The gray-haired author, sturdy of build and rugged of face, is of Jewish ancestry.

"Dr. Zhivago" recounts the misery of a group of Russians during the last years of the Czar and the first years of the Communist revolution.

It contains such views as "I don't know a movement more self-centered and further removed from the facts, asserts individual and strongly asserts individual dignity."

Side Roads Didn't Avoid Accident

CORRUM D'ALEND (Idaho) (AP) — I always try to use the side roads so I can miss heavy traffic, said Grover Bent, 70, who was injured in a two-car collision with a truck on Highway 200 near Corrum.

Bent said he was driving on Highway 200 when he was struck by a truck. He was injured and the truck was damaged.

The truck was driven by a man who was also injured. The accident occurred on Highway 200 near Corrum.

Old Eastman Hotel to Be Wrecked

HOPE, ARK. (AP) — Wrecking crews will invade the Eastman Annex to the Hot Springs Army-Navy Hospital Monday. The annex, formerly a palatial resort hotel, and a Hot Springs landmark, is being razed to make room for a new $1,700,000 post office and federal building.

Postmaster Paul E. Francis said yesterday the contract for demolition of the annex had been awarded to Patton Wrecking Co. of Little Rock. Patton's low bid was $37,440.

Francis said he was authorized to let the firm begin work Monday. It has 60 days in which to clear the site.

Bids will be invited today on construction of the post office and federal building, Francis said. The proposed three-story building will house 11 federal agencies.

Amendments Affect Public Pocketbooks

(Editor's note: This is the first of two articles on proposals to be on the Nov. 4 general election ballot.)

By RICHARD PAW

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The pocketbooks of Arkansas citizens will be directly affected by two proposals on the Nov. 4 general election ballot.

One of the proposals will be whether the state sales tax shall remain at three per cent or revert to two per cent; the other would allow cities and counties to issue bonds to aid industry and then levy extra taxes to pay them off.

More attention has been focused on the sales tax issue than any other. It has drawn wide support and heavy criticism.

It has drawn abrid support and heavy criticism. The tax boost law, backed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus, was enacted by the 1957 Legislature.

During debate on the increase, some lawmakers contended a boost in the two per cent sales tax would place an undue burden on lower income groups; others said citizens were demanding increased services and a higher sales tax was the best way to provide the necessary money.

Initially all commodities including food, clothing and household goods are subject to the tax. Leaders in the fight to retain the three per cent levy have included teachers and some state officials.

Faubus contends the higher tax is necessary to provide more money for public schools, the state welfare department and other agencies.

The question of whether the tax should remain in effect reached the ballot through the efforts of Alex Washburn, publisher of the Hope Star. He circulated a petition to have the issue referred to the voters.

Voters will be asked to mark

Nixon Shifts Campaign to Wisconsin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Nixon shifts his campaign for a Republican Congress to Wisconsin today amid renewed Democratic charges that President Eisenhower has shirked leadership in the school integration controversy.

Nixon prepared to leave New York after a breakfast meeting with Nelson Rockefeller, Republican candidate for the New York governorship.

Ignoring a snub by Rockefeller earlier Thursday night, Nixon went out of his way in a television talk to praise Rockefeller as an able administrator who offers New York "dynamic leadership."

Rockefeller's bid for liberal support in his close race with Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman has caused him to regard Nixon's New York campaigning as something of a liability. He wouldn't attend a dinner with the Vice President but went instead to another meeting.

Meanwhile, former President Harry S. Truman accuses Eisenhower of sidestepping a "moral responsibility" to back up the Supreme Court's school integration ruling.

The result, Truman told a Democratic fundraising dinner in Boston, was a wave of violence by "crackpots and extremists."

"For three years," Truman said, "the administration stood aside, while the opposition in some parts of the country gathered its strength."

"Only when there was outright defiance of the courts by a sovereign state did the President move into action. That was too late. The opposition to law had solidified and the poison of hate had already spread."

Truman winding up his national campaign for Democratic congressional and gubernatorial candidates in the Nov. 4 elections, sidestepped a news conference question earlier on the controversy surrounding Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler.

Butler has been under fire from some Southern Democrats for his strong civil rights stand. Asked if he regarded Butler as a good chairman, Truman declined to go further than saying Butler "has worked very hard."

Butler, meanwhile, complained that he is being "clubbored by the Republicans and snubbed by the Democrats."

"Sometimes I wonder whether we are going to stay during these closing weeks of the campaign," he told a Democratic rally at Bethesda, Md.

That was a reference to criticism from Southern Democrats, particularly Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.) who has suggested Butler quit talking so much during the campaign about party differences over civil rights.

In his speech, Butler also hit out again at Eisenhower's new campaign tactic of labeling Democrats as "radical." He called Eisenhower's oratory "unpleasant and plain" and a "compilation of platitudes."

Nationalists May Receive More Arms

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Delivery of more modern arms to Nationalist China is being discussed by U. S. officials as a means of strengthening anti-Communist forces in the Formosa area.

The result may be an expanded military aid program for the Nationalists, although no decisions have been made.

Some authorities estimated that depending on what military experts decided was necessary, the cost of such an undertaking could run from a few hundred millions of dollars to more than a billion.

The question of modernizing and strengthening President Chiang Kai-shek's forces with newer American weapons has been linked in recent days with the prospect that Chiang may be willing to reduce the size of his forces on the offshore islands near the Communist mainland.

One difficulty in working out any expanded arms aid program for the Nationalists is the limitation of funds available for foreign military assistance.

These funds already have been strained to pour ammunition, heavy guns and other supplies into the Quemoy Islands to enable the Nationalists to stand firm against the Chinese Communist bombardments that began Aug. 23.

The cost of this special effort is estimated by some authorities at around 300 million dollars to date. There is a possibility the administration will have to go to Congress next session with a request for supplemental funds.

In the last session, President Eisenhower got an appropriation of 1 1/2 billion dollars for foreign military aid out of a total mutual security funds of $3,300,000,000.

In separate visits to Formosa, Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of Defense McElroy are reported to have urged Chiang to make troop reductions on the offshore islands, to make the defenses of those islands more efficient. Dulles returned from Formosa early Friday.

News dispatches from Taipei said Chiang had conditionally agreed to cut his offshore island strength of more than 100 thousand men by 15 or 20 thousand troops.

His conditions were that the Communists should stop their attacks and that the United States should assist with measures to increase the fire power of the troops remaining on the islands. These reports have lacked official confirmation here.

Department Store Sales Increase

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Department store sales in the Eighth Federal Reserve District last week rose 7 per cent above the similar week last year.

The Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis said today that Little Rock sales jumped 43 per cent. Memphis sales slipped 7 per cent the only minus mark in the district.

St. Louis sales were up 8 per cent. Louisville sales limbed 4 per cent and seven smaller district cities averaged a 2 per cent gain.

For the period ended last week sales were 5 per cent above that of last year.

Idle Teachers Can Be Used in Grade Schools

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock's idle 176 high school teachers can be called upon to fill vacancies in elementary and junior high schools, the city school board ruled officially at a meeting last night.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus shut all four Little Rock high schools in mid-September in a move to avoid court-ordered integration.

Since then the teachers have reported to their schools regularly and have helped perform administrative chores.

The school board accepted the first resignation of a high school teacher since the shutdown began. William C. Winchell, auto mechanics instructor at Technical High School, said in his letter of resignation:

"Due to the unsettled situation that prevails, I have accepted a position with a manufacturing company on the west coast."

Board member R. A. Lile asked about the morale of the idle teachers. School Supt. Virgil Blossom said it was very good under the circumstances.

In another development, state Education Commissioner A. C. Ford asked Arkansas Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett to rule on several questions posed by the current withholding of funds from closed schools under new anti-integration laws.

Bennett said last night he would give no answer to the questions immediately.

He was asked:

1. Is it mandatory for the state Education Board to withhold a certain amount of state funds from the Little Rock School District under the new laws?
2. Must the board allocate to accredited public or private schools on a pro rata basis state funds for pupils transferring to other schools from the Little Rock district?
3. Is withholding of certain state aid from Little Rock of the allocation of all of this amount to other school districts or private accredited schools in violation of the restraining order issued recently by the Eighth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals?
4. What legal disposition can be made of the funds credited to the Little Rock district and held back but not sent to any other accredited school for education of pupils?
5. Is the state board employing proper procedures in order to comply with the anti-integration laws?

A special session of the Arkansas Legislature last month gave Faubus the package of laws in deal with the integration controversy.

Some of Little Rock's displaced students are attending an all-white private high school established by other schools in Arkansas, and a large number are enrolled in private schools.

The restraining order mentioned in Ford's questions, prohibit the Education Board, state education officials, the city school board and others from taking in a private school venture. The order blocks the possibility of state funds being used by the private school corporation, which currently is supported by public donations.

Faubus said he reported to Bennett about how the board is handling the situation.

No Contact Yet With Trapped Coal Miners

SPRINGFIELD, N.S. (AP) — Rescue teams included today downed debris-littered mine shaft heavily with poisonous gas toward 81 men trapped and possibly killed by an explosive shift of rock. Twelve others are known dead.

A mine official said there was a very remote hope that some of the trapped miners might be found alive but nothing had been heard since the accident Thursday night to indicate there were more survivors.

Eighty-one other men got out alive after the unexplained earth shift, the most severe in memory in North America's deepest coal mine. Fifteen of the survivors were injured.

Ten bodies have been recovered. One official said two more bodies had been spotted by rescue crews and would be brought up later.

Harold Gordon, coal chief for the mine owners, spent hours in the mine shaft and then told newsmen:

"There is a remote hope—very remote—that some men will be alive at the bottom end, and the top end of the 13,000-foot level." He said the basis for this hope was an indication that conditions at the two ends were not so bad as elsewhere in the mine.

Asked if there had been any contact with missing miners that would indicate survivors, Gordon replied: "None."

Nixon Shifts

to the ugly tactics of Mr. Nixon. In a New York talk, Nixon struck anew at "radicals" in predicting a GOP victory in the New York elections.

Although he didn't mention Democrats, he left no doubt of his target in declaring:

"The reactionaries of today are the radicals who seek bigger and bigger government, so that they can spend and spend, and elect and elect. The liberals of today are those conservatives who seek to restore power and initiative to the people where they belong."

In a similar vein, Secretary of Commerce Weeks told a Republican meeting at Charleston, W. Va. "All-time record prosperity again is within our reach. Don't let radical Democrat politicians snatch it away."

Credits Bill Meyer With His Success

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — In the midst of congratulations over his selection as The Associated Press Manager of the Year, Danny Murtaugh remembered another Pittsburgh manager today.

"Bill Meyer helped me an awful lot," the sharp-tongued, 41-year-old Pirates manager said at his home here. "Toward the end of my career, I got to thinking about wanting to be a manager. Billy would let me sit next to him on the bench. He gave me all sorts of advice, told me why he did things."

"Bill was a good baseball man," Murtaugh, former second baseman, who never played for a major league team that finished higher than fourth place, was named Manager of the Year Thursday for his feat of leading the underdog Pirates into second place in 1958.

The 34-70 finish, eight games behind the pennant-winning Milwaukee Braves, was the Pirates' best since 1944. They finished in 1944 for last place in 1957. It was Murtaugh's first full season as manager. He succeeded Bobby Bragan Aug. 3, 1957.

The stocky, 5-foot-9 manager played for the late Meyer in 1948, when the Pirates finished fourth and Meyer was acclaimed Manager of the Year. It was the only time in seven full seasons with the Philadelphia Phillies and the Pirates that Danny played on a first-division club. He played briefly for the Boston Braves in 1946.

Murtaugh started his managing career with New Orleans of the Southern Assn. in 1952.

He received 149 votes in The Associated Press poll of sports writers and sports broadcasters. He became the first manager to be chosen in competition with managers of both leagues. Previously, the Associated Press poll selected one manager in each league.

Bill Rigney, of the third-place San Francisco Giants, was second to Murtaugh with six votes. Fred Haney of Milwaukee and Casey Stengel of the championship New York Yankees each collected five first-place nominations. Lopez received four. Jimmy Dykes, who finished the season at Cincinnati, Harry Craft at Kansas City and Joe Gordon, who completed the year at Cleveland, one each.

Pro Cage Bullies Sign College Star

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ron Sharick, former basketball star at North Carolina State, has been signed by the Baltimore Bullets of the Eastern League.

The 24-year-old player, who stands 6-foot-8, split the last two seasons with the New York Knicks-robbers of the National Basketball Assn. and their farm team at Lenox, Mass., in the New England League. Sharick scored 1,761 points for N. C. State, averaging 22.1 points a game as a junior for his best season.

Amendments

ballots "for" or "against." Act 19 of 1957. A majority of "for" votes will keep the three per cent tax in effect; a majority of "against" votes will revert the tax to the former 2 per cent.

The measure to allow local governments to issue bonds for aiding industry is contained in a proposed amendment to the state Constitution.

It would authorize any city of the first or second class, any incorporated town, and any county to issue bonds with the consent of a majority of voters who cast ballots in an election called for that purpose.

The amendment states that the money raised through the sale of the bonds would be used "for the purpose of securing and developing industry." That could mean through loans to private firms, acquisition of sites and facilities for rent to firms, or other methods.

A special tax is provided today off the bonds. It could not be more than five mills on the dollar annually on real and personal property which currently is subject to tax.

The bonds could not be issued for a period longer than 30 years, and provision is made for suspending the special tax any time the money is not needed for bond payments.

The constitutional proposal is one of three submitted to the voters by the Legislature. The others would increase the pay of legislators and prohibit the state from levying ad valorem taxes.

Bobcats Claw Panthers 32-0 For 4AA Victory

By CHARLES WYLLIE JR.
Coach John Pierce's Hope Bobcats' journey to Magnolia last night and chalked up a 32-0 victory over the Panthers.

This was the 7th straight victory for the Bobcats and their fourth straight conference victory.

Hope won the toss of the coin and elected to receive.

Fullback Don Boothe took the opening kick-off on his 23 and returned it to his own 48. The Bobcats were stalled for 2 downs. Then Watkins rolled around end for a 1st down. The next play Watkins handed off to halfback John Graves and John raced 44 yards for a T.D. Watkins P.A.T. was good.

Jerry Thurman kicked off for the Bobcats and it went in the end-zone. After 3 downs the Panthers were forced to punt. Hope took the ball on the 46 and drove to the Panther 10, but there they were hindered by a penalty. The rest of the 1st quarter the two teams played to a standstill.

The 1st play of the 2nd quarter Magnolia completed a pass which was good for 22 yards. After 4 downs Magnolia gave up the ball on their own 33. After the Bobcats had driven 15 yards they were forced to punt. Magnolia ran up against a tough Bobcat defense and were forced to punt. Graves returned the punt to his own 25. The Bobcats drove 75 yards in 10 plays as Eddie King played over from the 5. Watkins P.A.T. was wide.

Thurman kicked off and Magnolia took over but were forced to punt after 6 plays. The 1st half ended with the Bobcats leading 13-0.

Both bands gave a fine half-time performance.

Jerry Thurman kicked off for

Hope and Johnson took the ball, but was stopped on the 18. After 3 downs Johnson punted and Hope took over on the 60 yard line. The Bobcats drove 50 yards in 9 plays with Don Boothe carrying the ball 7 times and plunging over from the 5 for a T.D. Watkins P.A.T. was no good.

Thurman kicked off and Magnolia drove 10 yards and then Garry Pormby recovered a fumble deep in Panther territory. The next play from scrimmage Eddie King scampered 35 yards for a T.D. Watkins P.A.T. was blocked.

Watkins kicked-off and Magnolia took possession of the ball as the 3rd quarter ended with Magnolia the Bobcats 42.

In the 4th quarter Johnson passed to Holly and he was stopped on the Hope 10. The Panthers drove to the 1 yard line, but they were stopped there by a powerful Bobcat defense. The Bobcats took over and Graves punted out for Hope. Again the Panthers drove to the 1 yard line and were stopped by the potent Bobcats. The next play John Graves stood 7 yards deep in the end-zone to punt. John was rushed quick so he side-stepped a few Panthers and ran 107 yards up the middle of the field for a T.D. Boothe's extra punt was good.

Final score: Hope 32, Magnolia 0.

Although England gained more from the Suez Canal than any other country, it had no part in building it, and actually opposed it.

got worse—

The whirr of the vacuum cleaner interrupted the conversation, and then Katherine said, "But listen, I want to ask you something."

The fond, beary old head tied up in a kerchief turned toward her. The vacuum cleaner clicked, fizzled, and became silent.

Katherine said, "I wanted to ask you a question about those mysteries. You see—" she chose her words with care—"I just wondered . . . what you'd do if somebody was . . . trying to kill you."

"Kill me? Well, I'd call the police, baby. But nobody's want to kill me. I haven't got any money. I'm not a queen or anything."

She thought she had answered the question. She was just reaching out to turn on the vacuum cleaner when Katherine said urgently, "Yes, but now listen. What would you do if . . . well, say you woke up in the night and somebody was in your room trying to kill you?"

Any seemed to be giving her a worried look. She said, "Have you been having nightmares, love?"

And Katherine, summoning up all her brightness, said, "No, no. I don't have anything to do with me. I haven't been having any nightmares. I'm fine. I just wondered. That's all." She looked down, away from Amy's worried, protective eyes.

"Well, I don't know. You mean I should throw the pillow at them or something?"

"No, I mean afterward. What do they do in the mysteries?"

"Well, after somebody's been killed they call in the detective or the policeman—inspectors, mostly—and then—"

"But I didn't mean that he really killed you. He just tried to."

"Well, I don't know exactly."

"But what do they do in the mysteries?"

"Well, they . . . they search!"

That night Katherine slept very well.

But when she got out of bed on Saturday morning she felt something in the air—a change of mood, a difference from the two days just past.

She dressed slowly, though full of joy, and went in to breakfast feeling on her guard even though she scarcely knew what there was to guard against. Aunt Millicent's chair was empty; she had already eaten and gone, and Paul sat alone at the table, bent blackly over his breakfast.

He glanced at her and grinned as she slid into her chair, but then he went back to his food without saying anything. They sat together in silence until after Amy had brought in her breakfast, clucking and protesting as she always did. It was a rare thing for Katherine to be alone with her mother.

She looked at her mother and said, "I don't know if I had any more to say to you, but I don't want to say anything more."

She said, "I don't know if I had any more to say to you, but I don't want to say anything more."

Rowing is one of the oldest means of transportation. The Phoenicians and Greeks used ships called biremes and triremes, because they had either two or three levels of rowers, to carry men and materials. These were powered by slaves, chained to their seats, each with a long oar and directed by a master. The captain steered the craft with a large sweep at the stern.

cials of the Macon County Voter Registration Board earlier this week refused to allow commission investigators to examine its records.

Commission Vice Chairman Robert G. Storey was asked whether the Macon County records would be subpoenaed. Storey, dean of the Southern Methodist University Law School, replied it would seem to be necessary to have the full record dealing with the controversy.

In Montgomery, Patterson—who is the Democratic nominee for governor—said the commission announced the hearing to "create an atmosphere to get some results."

But when she got out of bed on Saturday morning she felt something in the air—a change of mood, a difference from the two days just past.

She dressed slowly, though full of joy, and went in to breakfast feeling on her guard even though she scarcely knew what there was to guard against. Aunt Millicent's chair was empty; she had already eaten and gone, and Paul sat alone at the table, bent blackly over his breakfast.

He glanced at her and grinned as she slid into her chair, but then he went back to his food without saying anything. They sat together in silence until after Amy had brought in her breakfast, clucking and protesting as she always did. It was a rare thing for Katherine to be alone with her mother.

She looked at her mother and said, "I don't know if I had any more to say to you, but I don't want to say anything more."

She said, "I don't know if I had any more to say to you, but I don't want to say anything more."

Tebbetts Has Become Head of the Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Birdie Tebbetts, who resigned as Cincinnati manager when the Redlegs were in last place, has become the titular head of the rich Milwaukee Braves baseball kingdom and probably will assume the reins permanently in a few years.

Hired as executive vice president by Milwaukee earlier in the month, Tebbetts held forth Thursday in his first press conference.

In a prepared statement, he said he joined the Braves because the club offered the job "I have been preparing myself for during my 25 years as a player and a manager."

Tebbetts was put on the payroll as an aide to Braves President Joseph C. Pate, who said a Florida contract project will demand more of his time over the next 10 years. Caines established Tebbetts' status when he said:

"Birdie will head up the organization in my absence. He'll be responsible for it. Any trades must have the approval of the president or the executive vice president in the absence of the president." He added that "maybe in a matter of years Birdie will be president of the ball club."

Tebbetts asserted he has adopted a strict policy of noninterference with the labors of Field Manager Fred Haney. Birdie said "I would refuse" if asked to take over the ball club "for two weeks in July if Haney got sick."

"I'm not going to prostitute my integrity by doing something to somebody I wouldn't want done to me," Tebbetts said. He said Cincinnati General Manager Gabe Paul "never came to my club-house without my invitation and he never talked with the players without my permission. That will be my philosophy."

"Haney is a very fine manager," Tebbetts said. "Any reports that we didn't get along are erroneous. As manager of the Redlegs, I was out to beat the Braves and any other opposition. There was nothing personal in it."

publican votes in the coming congressional elections. These elections will be held Nov. 4.

Meanwhile, E. V. Livingston, chairman of the Macon County Registration Board, said he was determined to withhold records from the commission "until Mr. Patterson tells me to do otherwise."

In other actions at its meeting Thursday, the commission authorized:

1. Further investigations of alleged denial of voting rights in Mississippi and Florida.

2. A preliminary survey of a similar allegation, this one based on national origin, in a Northern state which Commission Chairman John A. Hannah refused to identify.

3. A fact-finding hearing on housing, to start in New York Feb. 2. Commission officials said this was not based on any complaints.

already has achieved the status of big business in the multi-million-dollar class.

Our native game species find themselves hard pressed to produce safe shootable supplies under present-day conditions. Clean farming, over-grazing, drainage, power equipment, insecticides, urbanization, declining soil fertility, etc., all have taken their toll. Thus, new species, able to adapt themselves to these changing conditions, are presently much in demand.

Realizing the urgency of increasing habitat productivity, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, through its subsidiary Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, constantly is in search of new adaptable species. In other words, what we need, and need badly are game birds that can flourish and reproduce under our present-day radically changed conditions.

So a Foreign Game Introduction Program has been set up. Constantly foreign species are being studied and placed under experimentation. You are familiar with some of the imports—the Hungarian partridge, the chukar partridge and so on. There have, of course, been dozens of experimental introductions which have not been successful or satisfactory. And still the search goes on.

Currently in progress are studies of the red-legged partridges of England, France and Spain; other partridges from India and the Middle East as well as some little-known subspecies of pheasants from Iran and Afghanistan. The one bird, however, which shows great promise for adaptation to our depleted countryside is the Spanish red-legged partridge.

Exact information on this bird is not easily come by. Each year about three million of them are shot in Spain, yet exact data is not available. Ties and accounts from farmers, sportsmen, etc., can not be depended upon. The reliable information so far collected would not fill three printed pages.

For a few minutes neither of them spoke; they ate silently, not looking at each other, and then Paul said, "You really ought to come swimming. It's good for you."

She said, "I'm not sure, species what would happen. I guess I will later."

He had laid down his fork and was staring at her again. "Maybe you can have a race or something when you get there. Do you want to?"

"What for?" Her suspicions were rising sharply once more. It was definitely not like Paul to pay so much attention to her when he was in this mood. He had never done it before. And besides, he was a wonderful swimmer—he had won lots of races at swimming meets before he got lazy and married—she couldn't race with him.

He said, "I don't know. I just thought it would give us something to do."

An Inspired Life

Oh, the power of an Inspired life. Joan of Arc opened the eyes of the world and established for all time a place in world affairs for consecrated womanhood. Her conviction, courage, enthusiasm and determination won for her battles that could hardly be won. She fixed her eyes on God and found her answer. Young churchmen today are leading a wicked world to God. As Joan looked up and got her answer, may we in the same measure of consecration and faith look to God and get our answers. May the Christian dignity exemplified in her behavior be ours.
